HOTEL CREW IN GIRL'S DEATH; EX-BOSTON PHYSICIAN HUNTED

Discovery was made today by the Boston Evening American of clues tending to connect a former Boston Physician, who had trouble with the authorities because of alleged malpractice, with the dismembered girl found by the wall of New Calvary Cemetery in Mattapan. This doctor was in Boston last week-end, was recognized by two persons, a clerk and a druggist, and was seen registering under an assumed name at a hotel here.

This discovery was in addition to information given the police by the Boston Evening American exclusively that the cardboard box in which were found the vital organs of the dead girl was one of a type manufactured exclusively for Collins & Fairbanks, furniture and hatters of Boston, the first tangible working clue the police received.

Another important find by reporters of this newspaper was two men's handkerchiefs, one bearing laundry marks, at the very scene in Harvard street, Mattapan, where the dismembered girl was discovered.
Meanwhile, Clyde Dearborn, manager of the Economy Grocery Store at No. 264 Ruggles street, Roxbury, notified the police of station 10 that he sold fifty feet of cotton cloth to a youth of 22 in a blue Overland sedan at three o'clock Monday afternoon. This was the type of rope used in tying up the receptacles in which the mutilated body was disposed of.
The former Boston physician, suspected in the case, attracted attention by his actions around the hotel, in addition to the fact that he used a name not his own. Suspicion fell on him when persons who had recognized him read of the discovery in Mattapan.

SMALLER OF TWO DEATH BOXES SENT FROM FACTORY TO HUB HABERDASHER

A large, extremely heavy trunk arrived with this man at the hotel last Thursday, and bellboys commented on the weight of the baggage. He checked out of the hotel Monday afternoon.
While he was in Boston, on Sunday night, a girl's voice came over the wire to the telephone operator of the hotel, inquiring if he was in his room. The assumed name of the man was used.
"Yes, he's in his room," replied the operator.
"Well, I want to know if he's alone," came back the girl's voice.
"I don't know," the operator answered, and the girl on the other end of the wire hung up.
Whether he had any visitors, and whether or not the girl of the telephone came to him, could not be stated by employees of the hotel. She gave the impression she was going to call to see him, if he was alone, but nobody saw her leave the room, nor did they see her enter it.

The youth to whom Manager Denbarn of the grocery store sold the clothing was described by Denbarn as about five feet ten inches tall.
"He asked for a good, long piece of cloth," said Denbarn. "All I had was that line was cotton cloth and I sold him five feet of that."
Boston police were compelled to learn that a blood-stained dress, found near other blood-stained clothing in Lincoln, R. I., had been called for by two men and taken away from the house of the man who made the find.

Begin Checkup on Boxes Sent Out With Goods to Surgeons
Positive identification of this box was made by Superintendent William Denbarn of the Suffolk Box and Board Company, manufacturers of the container. Denbarn was brought to Boston by this newspaper, and conducted the investigation followed closely the identification of the small cardboard container.

John Collins & Fairbanks began a scrutiny of their records to ascertain if any physician or surgeon of considerable practice, his family or relatives have had articles delivered to them in this type of box recently. As the cardboard box was used mostly for shipment of fur pieces, a check-up was begun on sales of summer furs to large-account customers.
Meticulous investigation was being made on commissions which seemed to link up the disappearance of Pauline Mitchell for Mother of Pawtucket on June 27 while wearing green stockings, the discovery of a bundle of blood-stained girl's clothing with the stockings missing in Lincoln, R. I., and the Boston "mystery" slaying.
The dismembered victim was also found in the green hosiery and a white nightgown. Parts of her body were wrapped in a Boston Sunday newspaper of June 27, while parts of the wrapping around the blood-stained bundle found in Lincoln consisted of a Providence newspaper of the same date.
The box, which was purchased a new stationery box, but her mother does not know whether it was bought by her or whether it was bought by her mother. She was twenty years old and of dark complexion, according to her mother's description. "I should say he was five feet, nine inches tall."
Denbarn's information followed closely the identification of the small cardboard container.

Pawtucket Girl Fits Death Description

BESIDES other circumstances tending strongly to link Pauline Mitchell, or Meekle, of No. 55 John street, Pawtucket, with the victim of the Mattapan death case, police today noted a similarity in their descriptions.
In regard to the color of the eyes, which in the dead girl were brown, Pauline Mitchell's mother, who speaks very imperfect English, hesitated and then pronounced them blue. The authorities say that the color of a person's eyes is often described inaccurately.
The descriptions follow:
PAULINE MITCHELL.
Hair—Dark brown, bobbed.
Eyes—Blue.
Height—5 feet.
Weight—140.
Age—Twenty.
Complexion—Dark.
Victim.
Hair—Dark, may be called dark brown or black, according to Dr. Leary.
Eyes—Brown.
Height—5 feet, 6 inches.
Weight—125-130 pounds.
Age—Twenty to twenty-five.
Complexion—Dark.

often for pecking women's small feet, occasionally for a man's dandy hat. It is too small for a man's hat.
Examination of the customers' list at the store in Washington street showed that more than a score of women purchased hats there during August and June, with almost all in boxes identical with the one found in the roadside near New Calvary cemetery.
Shipments are made from the store in all parts of the country, and a fairly large percentage of shipments go to Rhode Island and New Hampshire. Harstad said that on June 27, a girl's coat was delivered in one of the boxes to a young woman living in Slough.

WALTHAM COP VIEWS BODY

Similarity between the picture of the Calvary cemetery murder victim and Mrs. W. H. Glamo, missing Waltham woman, today led Waltham police to Boston to view the body and to compare the finger prints.
Mrs. Glamo vanished from her home in School street, Waltham, a short time before she was to be arraigned in Superior Court on a charge of shoplifting. Inspector Peter J. Tracy of Waltham police brought with him a photograph of Mrs. Glamo and finger prints made at the time she was arrested on the shoplifting charge.
MISS DISAPPEARED.
Mrs. Glamo and another young woman were arrested in Waltham store. Both were found guilty in District Court. The other girl received a suspended sentence while Mrs. Glamo was sentenced to three months. She appealed but shortly before she was to be arraigned in Superior Court, she dropped out of sight, leaving a note for her husband, Charles, who lives in Boston.
The note read, "Gone but not forgotten." He has since moved to Boston. A former neighbor, who lives under Glamo's name, which the Glamos occupied in Waltham, said that Mrs. Glamo was fond of shopping.

Finger Prints on Boxes Sent to Washington

Well-defined finger prints found on the boxes in which the dismembered girl's body was discovered in Mattapan were sent to Washington today by the Boston police for comparison with the finger prints of ex-service men.
Several million of these finger prints are on file at the Army, Navy and Marine Corps headquarters at the capital, but it is not necessary to examine all of them in making the comparison, as finger prints fall into distinctive classes.
Records at the State House will be examined and compared with the prints found on the cardboard boxes in the Mattapan mystery.

O'BRIEN WAITS LEARY REPORT

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien will make official action toward prosecution in the Calvary cemetery murder mystery if the report by Medical Examiner Leary warrants a first step by the Suffolk prosecutor's office, O'Brien said today.
"No matter how I know about the case except what I have read in the newspapers, nothing official or complete," he said.
"It has been talking with the police and my survey opinion just now is that the girl died as a result of illegal surgery."
"If, after the medical examination makes his formal report, it seems that there is something for me to do directly, I shall act in the matter."

HOW SLAYERS MAY HAVE DROPPED BODY

Scores of grieving mothers and fathers gathered at City Hospital in an effort to find out if the victim of the New Calvary cemetery tragedy was their daughter, and many friends of other girls examined the photographs of the victim, which were obtained from the body by Medical Examiner Leary.
None were allowed to see the remains. Dr. Leary feared that the excitement and shock that some would experience might cause commotion in the silent house of death.
The district attorney's office began the investigation today while the police were busy running down identification clues and making efforts to trace the original owners of the cardboard boxes into which the dismembered body was put.
One of the things that concerned the police was a hunt for the origin of the cord with which the body and the burial bag, used as receptacles for the body, was securely fastened. Too small for a telephone, they set to work on the heavy duty window cord, and a check-up was begun on the story of Mrs. Josephine Leary of Wagon Road.

BOXES PROBABLY THROWN FROM AUTO
Harvard street in after dark hours is a lonely spot, save for passing autos and it would have been a simple matter for a motorist who watched his chance to have disposed of the remains by casting the boxes containing them from his car as he sped by. Thomas Broderick, truck driver, who passed the spot where the girl's remains were found at 5 a. m. Tuesday and did not notice anything.

Girl Clothed Only in Green Hosiery and White Night Dress

Findings of the bloodstained clothes in Lincoln, R. I., about an hour's ride from Mattapan by automobile, looked large as one of the important features of the hunt for the men responsible for the death and dismemberment of the girl.
Besides the Providence newspaper of June 27, the articles were partly wrapped in a Pawtucket newspaper of June 26.
Through running down was ordered of the Pawtucket case referred to the city of Pawtucket, the father of Abigail Mitchell of No. 55 John street.

They are also certain that she had an unfortunate experience in love and that her death resulted indirectly from that blood-poisoning acting in as the aftermath of an illegal operation.
But Medical Examiner Leary refused to make a definite statement at this time as to the questions in this connection, leaving this to the police for the present. They are working on the theory that illegal surgery was committed.
Fingerprints of Alice Corbett, missing Smith College girl, whose body was sought for the hands of around Northampton, were discovered here in comparison with the prints taken from the hands of the slain death victim.

Why We Fish San Francisco's Plan How Many Children? A Rockefeller Rule

Brisk article. That one American community uses five billion kilowatts of electricity every year more than the total amount developed by all the conserving plants in Greece, Denmark, Turkey, Norway, Roumania, Latvia, Switzerland, Sweden and the Netherlands. These twelve countries have 109,000,000 population, nearly twenty times the population of New York city, although the population of the United States.

The people's use of electricity, power and telephone is the measure of its prosperity and enterprise. It is not actually a measure of civilization.

H. G. FOCKER, brilliant flying man from Holland, manufacturing planes here, has insured his life for $2,000,000 and pays high premiums because of the risk. This particular flyer is worth many times $2,000,000. He built the machine in which Commander Byrd, flying American naval officer, flew over the North Pole, with a crew of five men, in 1926. The actor, Edsel Ford and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

STETSON WILL LEAVE MUCH TO CHARITIES. Thousands of dollars in gifts to public institutions of Greater Boston and a $100,000 trust for a cousin Miss May W. Hatch of Framingham, Mass., will be left to charity by James H. Stetson, Quincy shoe manufacturer.

The document was filed today in Norfolk County Probate Court, Dedham.

The bulk of the estate is parcelled out in public institutions while friends, cousins and other relatives receive bequests ranging from $10,000. Edwin Rogers, a cousin, of West Newton, is given $10,000. The Quincy City Hospital and the Acorn Home for the Aged Association, each receives $10,000.

PASTOR'S WIFE BENEFITS. Mrs. Mary A. Butler, wife of the Rev. E. C. Butler of Quincy, is also given $10,000 by the terms of the will.

The following institutions are also beneficiaries: Florence Critchfield Hospital, Chestnut Hill; Boston Hospital, Chestnut Hill; Boston Hospital for Women and Children, Roxbury; Home of Aged People, Home for Aged Women, Children's Hospital and the Boston Dispensary.

Requests of $2,000 each are left to the following institutions: Boston Children's Aid Society, Land A. JOHN J. HANLON, of Chicago, tells the national government he intends to get married and wants "any literature on the government's ideals about marriage, particularly the size of the family the government wants one to have."

The ideal family is as many children as the mother wants, and can take care of, and every mother should be allowed to decide for herself how many.

Some small families have done wonders. Alexander the Great had no brothers or sisters. Caruso, on the other hand, was the sixteenth child; Napoleon was one of many.

The size of the family is the mother's business, not the government's business.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., wise man, will not allow his children to have their pictures in newspapers. He doesn't want them to "feel important before they have done anything worth while." He doesn't even want his children to know that they are very rich, which also is wise.

GOT $400 WEEK RUNNING RUM

New York, July 14 (A.P.)—The life story of Charles Augustus Smith, former rum runner, told in Federal Court yesterday during the trial of a case involving alleged $400,000 importation of liquor, disclosed that he received ten times as much pay for running rum as he did for running machine in wartime.

Cross-examined as one of the government's witnesses against William V. Dwyer and nine others, accused of heading a rum syndicate, Smith told him, in 1918, he earned $40 a week as quartermaster of a Russian vessel running rum. When he became a rum runner, his weekly income rose to $400 a week. He bought a limousine and hired a chauffeur.

Smith said that at the age of 17 he was a member on an oil tanker. He married a Swedish girl and eight hours later sailed to get a supply of liquor from rum run. At the request of the girl's parents the marriage was annulled, their complaint alleging that he was drunk when he married.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Second Polo Field at Princemere Most Beautifully Situated

MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS and Saturdays are polo days with Myopians, and those who love the thrill of this fast and spirited sport may have their fill either at the Myopia field, or over at Princemere.

DUDLEY L. ROBERTS, as captain of polo for Myopia, gathers his cohorts at one of the other field, on Saturdays at the hour of 4 in the afternoon, on Wednesdays and Mondays at 5.

THIS AFTERNOON the play was to be at Princemere on the old field, with Messrs. Ayer, Shaw, Prince, the younger, and Wharton in the saddle for one of the teams.

AS OPPONENTS they'll have Augustus Goodwin, Harry Pratt McKean, Quincy A. Shaw McKean and Philip Belmont, a fast playing company altogether.

DURING THE BUSINESS of Mrs. "Tom" Curtis, of Boston, and "Pelham" Chase, of Nahant, hosted duties for Mrs. Curtis' regular Thursday at bridge at the Nahant Club service on Mrs. Curtis' field, who's most happy in carrying them on.

THE PRINCESS MICHAEL, CANTACUZENE, of Russia, is in close attendance upon her mother during her indisposition, and for the time has cancelled all social diversions. Later the divorce threat will be taken up, and early in August the Prince comes East to join his charming wife.

WITH THE COMPLETION of a second polo field at Princemere, the new field is beautifully situated and well merited its name. "The Betty's" Myopia and Princemere have the choice of three excellent fields on which to play.

PRACTICALLY "ALL NAHANT" will be at the Madeleine Beal-John Pay wedding in the little Nahant Church, Saturday. It's sure to be a pretty wedding, with impromptu al fresco features as guests move on from the ceremonial field to the Nahant Club for the reception.

BRIDESMAIDS

Miss Margaret Curtis (left) and Miss Penelope Curtis will attend Miss Madeleine Beal when, on Saturday, she marries John Howard Pay at the little Nahant church.

BOTH THE YOUNG PEOPLE concerned and their families are closely identified with the Summer life of the smart little North Shore Colony, and the wedding gifts now showering down on Miss Beal often are not as chosen with the fore knowledge of her great love for the place.

ONE RICH GIFT is a rare blue plate, of much antiquity and beauty, showing a design of the old Nahant Inn which figured prominently in the settlement's early history. Needless to say the plate will be highly prized by the bride.

FRIDAY'S PRE-NUPITAL dinner, dance, at the Nahant Club with Arthur D. Pay as host, is to be a jolly occasion. It serves to be a jolly occasion. It serves to be a jolly occasion. It serves to be a jolly occasion.

MRS. JAMES CUMMINGS BARR, arriving briefly in town on route from her Long Island estate to the ancestral Barr homestead at New Ipswich, in the New Hampshire hills, was a smart figure in black as she lunched at The Barn, one of Boston's notable restaurants.

THE BARRS, with homes in four or five localities, are persons of importance in the little New Ipswich settlement, which knows them well as generous donors to various deserving causes. The Barr house is an ancient landmark.

MRS. DONALD C. WATSON of Weston joined Mr. Watson and the yacht "Sun" Easter at Portland yesterday to make the last leg of the Eastern's cruise aboard that sturdy cruiser.

THE EASTERN FLEET disported at Portland and came home "At Will." Mrs. Watson had been as far as Portland when Bob Athory, who went down to meet his father, Robert Athory, captain of the "Leonore" and sail to Boston with him.

VICEROY-COMMODORE JOHN S. LAWRENCE and his "Admiral" carried a valiant feminine sailor in the person of Miss Elsie Lawrence, almost the sole representative of her sex throughout the whole company of deep sea sailors.

MISS LAWRENCE often is shipmate of her yachtsman-mother, whose "Advance" and her new way of rigging has revolutionized the sport of amateur yacht racing hereabouts. Miss Lawrence will in all probability be aboard the yacht when she returns from Newport with the New York yacht fleet.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—The Interborough Rapid Transit Company has begun court action against the subway strikers for $250,000 damages. It names Edward F. Lavin, president of the strikers' organization, and sixty-one other leaders in the suits alleging that loss in revenues.

The company announced it is making a permanent organization of the forces, old and new, which have been operating its lines during the strike.

New York, July 14.—Trained by gunmen in a north automobile two detectives and their two prisoners were shot and seriously wounded while on their way to police headquarters.

The police are puzzled at the shooting of both detectives and prisoners. One theory advanced was that the gunmen intended to rescue comrades and accidentally shot them while aiming at the policemen, but the more accepted theory was that the shooting was done with the intention of preventing them "squalling."

LONGWORTH, IF COOLIDGE IS OUT OF RACE

Chicago, July 14 (A.P.)—With the Presidential election still two years away, expressions by political leaders on the coming battle and on this fall's Senatorial and Congressional fights are beginning to be heard.

Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, a Republican, is a prediction that President Coolidge will not be a candidate for reelection, C. Bacon of Chicago, believes that Senator Nicholas Longworth has a place in the picture of the next Presidential campaign, if Coolidge is not a candidate and Franklin D. Roosevelt wins the next Senate and, possibly, the House, Democratic.

Senator Cummins, defeated in recent Republican primary by Colonel Smith W. Brookhart, also expressed an opinion on his arrival at Des Moines from Washington that the present "nominal" Republican majority in the Upper House might disappear with the November election.

"One doesn't know that President Coolidge will be a candidate or that he wants to be a candidate," said Senator Cummins, "my own prediction is that he will not be a candidate. I think he will have had enough of it by that time. It is an immense task and few men last through it."

'Kid With Penny' Is Mainstay of Candy Industry

Atlantic City, July 14.—The kid with the penny is the great American candy buyer and the foundation of the industry, according to Herbert A. Dodge, of Chicago, who spoke before the convention of the National Confectionery Salesmen's Association which is in session here today. He was president of the association for two years.

"Regardless of the growing sales generally," he said, "that child is still the big purchaser. The kid is also the most discriminating buyer, walking blocks to obtain the particular kind of candy he likes."

President Coolidge, discussed some possible Republican candidates, during a visit to Cincinnati, the home city of Mr. Longworth, speaker of the House of Representatives. In the event that the President decides not to run again, Mr. Sleep saw Longworth, Landon, Dawes, Hoover and Watson loom as Presidential

WILL BE DEMAND.

"It is, of course, well known that there will be a demand that President Coolidge accept another term and only if the President declines to respond to this demand will it be open to others," he said.

Mr. Longworth was declared to be in a good position from many points of view—his achievement as speaker, his many years of efficient service in Congress, his geographical position.

BOLD BAND OF AUTO THIEVES UNCOVERED

Wholesale thefts of loaded auto trucks by an organized band of clever thieves, high-power rascals, and adequate guards, are revealed in the opinion of the police, by the arrest of Anthony Zona of Roxbury, charged with being one of the abductors for the gang.

Zona was taken by Special Officer Lowrey of the Division street station after three loaded trucks had been stolen this week.

The first truck stolen was the property of the American Railway Express and it contained over $1,000 worth of whiskey being moved to another point under Federal permit. The second stolen in the Back Bay, was loaded with 16 automobile tires.

The third, stolen at Beach and South streets, in the business district, was laden with $4,000 worth of cut wire and other leather supplies.

All the trucks were found abandoned, the loads evidently having been transferred to trucks used by the gang.

The special officers located the leather today in the Elliot Garage on Stuart street, where it had been stored in another truck. Zona was picked up by the police, when he tried to tell some of the leather, exhibiting samples from the lot.

Read It FIRST in American

THE supremacy of the Boston Evening American as a newspaper, and its ability to present readers the news when it is new, was demonstrated by the repeated beats it scored over other Boston evening papers in the first stories on the Mattapan murder.

The Boston Evening American was first on the street with the news of the finding of the dismembered body.

A reprint of the Home Edition was in the hands of newboys at 9 o'clock and gave as complete a story as other Boston papers carried in their first editions which did not appear until 10 o'clock or in some cases 10:15.

Throughout the day the Boston Evening American carried fresh developments to its readers in every part of the city, an hour and a half ahead of other papers.

Boston Evening Americans, carrying a detailed story of the mystery murder, were sold at the scene of the discovery two hours ahead of any other contemporary.

Not only in the department of written news, but also in the field of pictorial news, the Boston Evening American far and away excelled its competitors. Every interesting phase of the case was pictured on its pages within a few hours after the story broke. No other paper even approached the Boston Evening American's effort.

IF YOU WANT THE NEWS, YOU WILL FIND IT FIRST IN THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN.

GIRL STOPS SALE OF BIG PARK BY DEAD MAN'S KIN

Providence, July 14 (A.P.)—The mortgage sale of Crescent Park, famous Rhode Island amusement and resort, was stopped by Mrs. Helen Simmons of Long Beach, Cal., a sister of the late Charles Loof, owner of the park, was prevented in a preliminary injunction granted Miss Marion Clarke, administrator of Loof's estate and Mr. Loof's former secretary, in the Superior Court today. Mrs. Simmons seeks to foreclose a mortgage for $10,000.

HALF-INCH RAINFALL AIDS VALLEY FARMS

Birmingham, July 14 (A.P.)—More than half an inch of rainfall that accompanied an electrical and wind storm, has done much, according to agricultural authorities today, to save a farming and garden situation that was fast becoming desperate for lack of water. In parts of the Connecticut Valley, south of this city, the rainfall was heavier than here.

SEVEN NATIVES KILLED IN TYPHOON OFF MANILA

Manila, July 14 (A.P.)—Seven natives were killed by a typhoon which has swept over the island of Bombon, 175 miles southeast of Manila. An official report received here said the storm also caused heavy damage. A family of five persons were drowned when their house was washed out to sea during the typhoon. Another victim was buried in a landslide and another killed by a falling tree. Sixty houses were destroyed.

FAHEY BRIEF $1,604,725 FOR CARBARN BOSTON PHONE SLAYERS BETTERMENT

Spokane under the auspices of the Clemency committee at its headquarters in Market street, Brigadier Attorney Thomas F. Fahey announced he would present to Governor F. Fuller a special brief of the case of John J. Devesant, John McLaughlin and Edward Heinlein.

He said there were certain matters relative to the normal condition of Devesant that ought to be brought out.

Other speakers asked those present to aid in seeking commutation for the trio, sentenced to die during the week of August 8 for the shooting of a watchman in the Washburn car barn robbery.

Mr. Fahey said he personally has been opposed to capital punishment for 30 years.

He said a petition for clemency would be of no avail unless it showed good and sufficient reasons, and that he proposed to show this in his brief.

Secretary Frank Manning said over 100,000 signatures have thus far been obtained.

You will find the best home bargains in the classified ads on the next-to-the-last page.

by BEATRICE BURTON
Author of 'GILDED KISSES' and 'PIRATE OF HEARTS'

Story of a Boston Girl Who Liked Jazz Music and the Bright Lights

It was the first real orchid Merry had ever had in her life.

READ THIS FIRST:

MERRY LOOKE, pretty and gay as her nickname, has been a flirt all her life.

Her father dies, and she gets the job of assistant in a Boylston street beauty shop. Momm takes a roomer into the house to help make both ends meet.

Merry falls in love with ANTHONY GAINES, a sober-minded young lawyer who wants to marry her. But Merry is afraid her feeling for him won't last. And so she and Tony decide to wait six months before they marry.

Then one night, when Tony breaks an engagement with her, Merry, hurt and angry, lets DERRICK JONES, who lives next door, make love to her as he often had before she met Tony. Then she goes out with BILL ERSKINE, a friend of MORELEY KAUFMAN, for whom her sister CASSIE works. When Tony hears about this he shuts up his office and goes to Montana to practice law. A letter comes from him, but it is lost around the house before Merry has a chance to read it. She puts Tony out of her mind, gradually.

Her oldest sister, HELEN, marries. Then Cassie marries the wealthy Morley Kaufman. JINNY, the youngest of the four sisters, takes DERRICK JONES away from Merry, and Merry is very much dejected and "on the shelf."

When Bill Erskine comes back into her life, she welcomes him eagerly. He sends her presents, comes to see her whenever he comes to town, tells her he loves her, but never asks her to marry him. Still, Merry feels sure that she can marry him whenever she puts her mind to it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

"I know a little bit about it," Merry said, looking at the net. "I've seen a few of them in the paper."

'BABY FARM' HEADS HALED TO COURT

CANADIANS SHY AT U. S. PROHIBITION PLAN

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

Washington, July 14 (Universal).—In a survey of the Quebec situation, the conclusion of the other Canadian provinces in regard to the prohibition of liquor will be of the utmost significance. It will take many weeks to reach a final solution, whether or not that solution means the same system for the whole Dominion.

The Quebec situation for a Federal prohibition is a problem of the utmost importance. It is a problem that will be of the utmost importance to the whole Dominion. It is a problem that will be of the utmost importance to the whole Dominion.

ON THE QUEBEC WIRE. The shortest controversy in Canada is between Ontario, the largest province, and Quebec, almost as large. They are also the two provinces that have the most serious problem in regard to the prohibition of liquor.

THE FIGHT GAME FROM THE INSIDE by JACK KEARNS

KEARNS ANSWERS DEMPSEY'S CHARGES

Battling Nelson Put Skids Under Jack Kearns' First Fighter

THIS is the third chapter of Jack Kearns' thrilling story in which he replies to the charges of Jack Dempsey and gives some interesting details of the fight game from the inside. It is the first time that the man who put Jack Dempsey on the pugilist's map has ever written a book about his own life. Read the story every day in the Boston Evening American.

By JACK KEARNS THIRD CHAPTER

I tired of Alaska; restless, I guess, and with a keen desire for greater adventure. I hoped about a great deal in the early days, often just a jump or two ahead of the sheriff. I lapped go lucky and with never a fear or a care. I worked my way down to Seattle as an oiler on the "Queen," I think it was. That wasn't as easy as weighing a miner's poke.

I ran into Sammy Maxwell, a pretty good fighter. He had played at gold mining in Alaska. We fought and managed each other alternately. With each successive bout in which I played the part of athlete, I became convinced that managing did not produce as many ringing dollars as I am ears, howed in noses and all things that it.

Battling Nelson was just beginning to at that attention within a radius of twenty miles or so around any place in which he happened to be.

I thought I had a gold mine in Maxwell. We heard that Battling Nelson was going to Hot Springs, Arkansas, for a rest so we decided to disturb that rest. We landed in town with as much noise as possible. He agreed to fight Maxwell to cut down the Springs over my life. My Sammy was going sweetly until the twelfth round when Nelson rapped him in the belly and out went the light of my life. Too many Alaskan beams and too great a lapse since his last plate of them.

BATTLING NELSON WHIPS COAST MAN-KILLER

Charley Laughlin had a nose on there and had fitted up a gymnasium in the house. I was invited to give Nelson the seal test and asked Charley to accompany a celebrated fighter of the time to do the training. The two men, but he failed to keep his nose on the end of his head and Nelson kept knocking him over the head.

They brought him a world beater then and they whipped to St. Louis and began to train with Al. I worked with him for the Benny Yanger fight, one of the fiercest ever saw in the ring.

It was to have been decided at the end of the fifteenth, but they ordered five extra rounds and Yanger won in the sixteenth.

From there I went back to San Francisco. I joined at St. Hill, Bishop L. A. Long and Aurelio Herrera. Then with one and Herrera I fought the Northern part of the coast. We fought in the morning or manage each other as the coast on demanded.

Those were exciting days. Herrera, a Mexican, was the terror among the hitters. He was meeting all comers for us and doing all comers didn't last long no matter what town we hit. Herrera would win them on their heads in no time at all. When one is counting the barbed blisters of all time it is well to remember this fellow. He could punch.

I didn't make any difference to Herrera who the man was or what he weighed when I dug up all comers for him. Never a lick of real training would do. Fire water was his passion and he picked me for his partner. He was a real human form. You ask Battling Nelson to this day which man of the two that he met him the hardest and he will instantly say his head and say "Herrera."

In their bout of twenty rounds at Butte, Montana, Herrera hit Nelson on top of the head with a wild swing and Nelson spun through the air like a pinwheel. He hit St. Louis and he came back and I saved in his head. You can readily understand why I didn't have long as a substitute "all comers" against that fellow. Herrera was a real star of making a living, though at the time I didn't think even Pitman was a punch you know.

The little fellow then I did enter into a real match for my life back when I took back at some of the best fighters of the time. I look back on that night and I get no more than $250 for my win, was quite clear on the night when $250 was dropped in my hands for having finished a tough big job in three rounds. With it I wasn't money. Achievement and the spirit of adventure kept me going.

HERRERA AMONG HARDEST HITTERS IN GAME

I took to managing more now. I had Fritz Hoffman, Kid Scaler, Indian Joe Gregg, Freddie Weeks, Maurice Thompson and Tommy Reilly on my string and there was plenty of action.

I brought Kid Scaler and Reilly down into San Francisco where Scaler knocked out Billy Small in seven rounds and Reilly was stopped by Young Peter Jackson in eight.

In those days a $200 house was a bang up success, though my string usually got a promoter or bout for houses that had gates of $1200 to $1500. Big money at that time I can tell you.

All my energetic men were directed on a belly how of Kid Scaler. I wanted to make him a champion and I was delirious to find that old Kid Scaler, the dean of the boxing writers in San Francisco, had taken a shine to both Scaler and Reilly. He was our best booster. I began to believe everything he said about my men.

I dropped into the Delvidere bar one day and encountered Jimmy Coffey, then budding out as a promoter or bout.

I ran into about Kid Scaler and finally wound up by offering to back Scaler for $5,000 of my own money. I didn't have a dime, but I was betting $5,000 just the same and making just as much noise about it as John W. Gatto would have done. I was willing to have Scaler fight any man in the world, Battling Nelson preferred. We made Eddie Graney the stakeholder, Graney getting my personal check for the $5,000.

Nelson landed in town just about the time that my $5,000 check was bouncing back in Graney's hand marked "no funds." Nelson had Graney's word for it that there would be a fight and when Willie Britt, managing his own brother, Jimmy, refused to back out to the Graney to settle, only too willing to do so.

BERLENBACH MANAGER ROWS WITH CHAMP'S TRAINER

Delaney Rules Choice of Fans as Zero Hour Draws Near

By JACK CONWAY

New York, July 14.—There is discord in Paul Berlenbach's camp on the eve of the world's light-heavyweight championship title battle with Jack Delaney at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tomorrow night. There are decided differences between Dan Hickey, Berlenbach's manager, and trainer and Ben Stern, the champion's business manager and closest friend.

Jack Conway

He prepared the late Bob Fitzsimmons for most of his important matches, while he has had complete charge of Berlenbach's conditioning up until recently.

Berlebach's commanding up-front posture in the arena is a result of his training and arguments. Naturally the changing views of blood from a option among the old adoptions and I may have had some effect on it.

Here with blood sugar and slow in his final training state. This does not necessarily mean he is in the best of shape as Don Paul never was a Mike Gibson in the gym. His trading stance requires this writer a great deal of respect of Luis. He is not a fan of anything but the most solid and simple of trading strategies. He is a big risk taker.

Berlebach is primarily a punter and he cannot work at the trade when he is obliged to wear some pills as he likes to close and then pull his punches for fear of wrecking his scalp of serious partners.

FANS WANT TO DELANEY

There seems to be a decided reaction to Delaney and I would not be surprised if it is as big as 10 to 8 favoring
